Cooperative purchasing

Cooperative purchasing made easy through Sourcewell

You have a lot of choices when it comes to purchasing the right machines for your construction projects. Cooperative purchasing through Komatsu's nationally awarded Sourcewell contract is a good option to consider when you want high-quality, heavy construction equipment at a competitive price.

Save yourself time, money and participation is free

Sourcewell cooperative purchasing is a free membership program that gives you access to more than 60 equipment models supported by a network of 34 Komatsu distributors and more than 200 branches across North America.

By combining the buying power of more than 50,000 government, education, tribal entities and nonprofit organizations, cooperative purchasing via a Sourcewell contract saves you time and money with no vendors to solicit and no RFPs to prepare while ensuring confidence in your purchasing decisions. What's more, there is no cost to join and there are no minimum contract purchasing requirements or obligations, making Sourcewell cooperative purchasing a win-win for your business.

Sourcewell cooperative purchasing adds efficiency to your business

No cost to join

Sourcewell membership is free and open to qualified government agencies, nonprofit organizations, educational institutions (private or public) and tribal entities.

Easy procurement

With no vendors to solicit and no RFPs to prepare, Sourcewell makes purchasing heavy construction equipment much easier.

Save time and money

With competing priorities, aggressive deadlines, rigid procurement policies and budget cuts, cooperative purchasing through Sourcewell can be an effective strategy to help you eliminate or mitigate many of those challenges.

Competitive pricing

As a Sourcewell member you have the ability to purchase heavy-duty Komatsu construction equipment at a competitive price, which can help lower your ownership costs.

Get access to intelligent machines

Komatsu Sourcewell members can purchase the same high-quality machines we distribute to our commercial customers, including those with Komatsu's intelligent Machine Control (iMC). Incorporating a host of advanced, proprietary machine technology, iMC is designed to improve construction site efficiency with productivity-enhancing automation.*

*Technology add-ons, service agreements and technical support programs are available for purchase separately from your Sourcewell contract.
